For VERNON.
Democratic Mass Convention! Grand Rally at Indianapolis!

AUGUST 27th, 1855

The whole State is one vast arena. The press is full of the event. The public mind is agitated. How much they contend with the Republicans, yet, if that is all, there is no duty which the citizens of Free Government, as being dominant, should not do to the end that the principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth. The principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth. The principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth. The principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth. The principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth. The principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth. The principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth. The principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth. The principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth. The principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth. The principles of Free Government, as being dominant, should not perish from the earth.
