For about eight years I have been severely afflicted with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered with the Asthma; for the last two years I have suffered beyond all my powers of description; months at a time I have not been able to sleep in bed; getting what rest I could sitting in a chair. My difficulty of breathing, and my sufferings, were so great at times, that for hours together my friends expected that each hour would be my last. In less than ten minutes from the time I upplied the Inhaler to my stomach, and took a teaspoonful of the Cherry Syrup, I was relieved in a greatmeasure from the difficulty of breathing, and had a comfort possible benefit, and am now comparatively well. Into a better land. A Reminiscence—My First Sermon. MY DEAR BROTHER REESE:-This day 40 years ago, in Anne Arundel county, Maryland, I preached my first itinerant sermon. Rev. Daniel Standsbury with whom I was to travel, did not meet me according to appointment. So with much fear and tremgation had assembled in a large room in a a near neighbor to the Rev. Mr. Scott, a Presfarm house. The sleighing was good. The byterian preacher, approached him (Scott) apfor want of seats, all stood up with their with a butcher-knife, inflicting such a wound as backs against the wall, over to my right caused his death in about three hours. Hickand over to my left. A corner fire place man immediately fied to a small stream near by was piled up with a large amount of young and drowned himself. half-seasoned hickory wood, burning fiercely. Our room soon became rather warm for me, as I stood back near the front door, and the ladies near the fire seemed to be melting into a profuse perspiration. Sing- to do, upon which Hickman became so enraged ing and prayer over the text was announced that he committed the act. Hickman was an embarrassed at indications of mirth in my a popular Minister in his society, and respected congregation. At first I supposed all to by those without. have been occasioned by my awkwardness; Respectfully but as all eyes glanced toward the colored people, I cast a look in that direction, and found them asleep—standing on their feet of the New York Legislature, was put under the Head, Vertigo, Failure of emory. Mercurial Dispeople, I cast a look in that direction, and asleep! Coming in out of the cold, that hot fire had melted them. Heads to one side, eyes half closed, mouths half opened, tongues inclined to hang out, knees a little bent and parting asunder, and their linsey woolsey clad backs scraping down the wall lower and lower they went, and as they sunk lower the mirth rose higher among the young people. Finally, all caught themselves sinking, and strengthened up again, then put on the appearance of shame.— The mirth, which I lacked courage to reprove, soon subsided, and I went on with Importers and Dealers in English, American, my sermon-who can tell how? Presently the mirth arose again. A slick looking youngster, a colored waiting man, standing on his feet, was fast asleep, and sinking down as before. All the rest of the colored people were now awake, and with the whites, had their eyes turned on the sleeper, and, like them, seemed to be much amused -down, down, lower and lower he went. until suddenly he started up, and blowed like some wild animals do when they are badly scared, and then, as before, he seemed to be ashamed. That genteel assembly evidently aimed to suppress laughter, but failed—nor had I the courage to reprove. Presently all was quiet, and I proceeded with my sermon, I suppose from bad to worse, for the spirit of the times was against me. Again, for the third time I was interrupted with bursts of laughter-again the waiting man had gone to sleep, standing on his feet-down he was sinking, mouth opened, eyes half closed, knees bent and parting asunder. When he got quite down on his hunkers, and seemed as if nothing

Strong Minded Women.

The fascination of an original and powerful mind has for me something indescribable. In a man, it exercises a singular sway over my feelings whatever other drawbacks may clog it; but in a woman, it stirs within me an admiration that amounts to fanaticism

"This, I believe, is not common to all men, for the sterner sex are apt to look with jealousy and dislike on a bas-bleu as an interloper upon territory that belongs exclusively to themselves. However this may be, a superior intellect in a woman, united as it invariably is to a great strength of character, has always enchained whilst it humbled me. Intellect and energy in men seem to me more a matter of course; for with these instruments, as it were, they carve their way to fortune's height; but in women, on the contrary, they are for the most part stumbling-blocks to their success in life. It is by softer attributes that their destiny is accomplished; and nature has ordained that woman's influence should rather exert its spell over the heart than the reason of the rougher sex. Thus, an intellectual woman is rather an exception to her sex, and her setting up as a rival in mental effort not only exposes her to the loss of male sympathy, but, as I have said is calculated to excite positive feelings of aversion. A woman of genius has, therefore, a cruel choice to make, and, before she ventures upon a struggle with the other sex, in the lofty domain of letters and science, she must have gone through a painful estimate of the sacrifices, and, above all, the self-denial necessary for the task. The high cultivation of her intellect demands n a woman the abdication of her true destiny; and it is for this voluntary martyrdom, perhaps, that I look up to them with so much deference and affection. Of all the characters that flitted across that mighty scene, the French Revolution, there are none, in my view, to surpass in heroism Madame Roland. To say nothing of her intellectual powers, what an amazing triumph of mind over feminine nature to refuse, as she did, an easy escape from her prison, and to meet a terrible death with the calm courage of a soldier. - Wikoff.

SOMETHING NEW AND VALUABLE.

The most powerful King on the face of the globe now reigns supreme in the American Republic The power of the crowned heads of Europe sink into insignificance when compared to that of our American King.

European Kings employ the power vested in them to increase the riches of the rich and lordly, and to reduce to greater misory and degradation, the poor and dependent. Our American King goes forth with equal willingness to the lordly mansion and humble cabin, ready alike to administer relief and to offer health and happiness to the lofty and lowly, the rich and the poor.

DR. JOHN BULL S GREAT AMERICAN KING Is the Texts Wonder of the Wonder, and the greatest blessing ever offered to afflicted humanity; to the suffering millions, the Bottor can say, relief is at your command. You have only to use this magical remedy. All those who still suffer, and will not accept the professed Baim, deserve not the pity of their families.

This wonderful medicine, during the brief period since its introduction, has carried happiness to the hearts of thousans, and made life a charm to many who hereful fore regarded it only as a painful and miserable existence. To the winds with all Liniments, Buntrocations Paffi Killers and Pain Extractors, and let millions of glad tongues proclaim the meetrs of the great "American King of Pain." I preparation composed solely of vegetables and roots, produced by Americans own rich and bouncesus soil.

bles and roots, produced by America's own rich and bounteous soil.

We would akt the LADIES, who are always competent judges of what is and what is not a valuable family medicine, to do us a special favor by giving the King of Pan a single trial, and if satisfactory, exert their influence in its behalf recommend it, speak well and often of its and see that it is used by their afflicted neighbors. The Ladies are always charkable, and when they induce their suffering frients to use this really valuable medicine, they will be doing an act of benevolence that tay can well be proud of. This is a powerful and truly magical remedy for all external diseases, sores, swellings, burns, &c, and for many internal afflictions, it is a certain curd, etc. it is perfectly harmless and incapable of producing

R. COCHRAN'S IMPROVED ECLIPSE MILL

THE subscriber manufactures the above Portable Corr L and Flouring ill of all sizes, from 16 to 36 inches in diameter, both double and single geared. The stone is of the best quality of French Burr. The advantages diameter, both double and single geared. The stone is of the best quality of French Burr. The advantages of this mill are that the ender stone is the runner, which is perfectly balanced on the cockhead of the spindle, the weight of the stone being below the balancing point and driver, which gives it a steady, andulating motion, thereby making fine even meal or flour. The simple and pecular construction of the step by which the spindle and runner stone are raised perpendicularly—the wear of the stones raising and lowering does not effect or change the tram of the nill. The bush is constructed so that it is oiled and tightened when the mill is running. It impossible to choke this mill at any speed with anything that a mill was every intended to grind. With it is a fan that clears the grain as it falls from the shoe into the eye of the stone. This mill, in simplicity of construction, strength and durability and the ease of being kept in good sunning order, on examination or trial, will recommend itself to be superior to a lothers in use. Convinced that this mill combines all the advantages claimed for it, I will give $500 to any man that will produce a mill of the same diameter, that will grind more wheat or corn, and make better flour or meal with the same amount of power—to be decided by disinterested in darkness and ignorance on the subject of disease.
