Giving the lie to the charge that the Klan takes the law into its own hands, the above represents receipts taken from the federal prohibition agent, W. H. Holman, for evidence gathered by Klan investigators in Fort Wardmann is sufficient evidence itself.

Further giving the constant of the controlled newspapers that a "small handful of feets what had been considered and controlled newspapers that a "small handful of small-bored and controlled newspapers that a "small handful of feets had been considered are certainly evidence of a long, carefully planned had prign carried out and findaced by the Fort Wayne branch of the Knights of the Ku Kiux Klan. Not mere rumor, but definite evidence and affidavits of fact, were presented to federal men, on which they could do naught but act.

(By Staff Correspondent)

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 16.—The boast of Fort Wayne's "elect" ever since prohibition went into effect, that federal officers would never raid Fort Wayne, has proved not only a boomerang, but the joke of the age.

Federal officers have been literally chased out of town in the past, not because they did not want to act, but because they were unable to act; they have been literally impotent, but the evidence forced upon them by the Kinghts of the Ku Klux Klan, evidence of which there was no doubt and no denial, federal investigators raided Fort Wayne this week, in the face of terrific pressure and organized protection, which has in the past constituted a most perfectly constructed stone wall about and around law violation in Indiana.

The fact that Fort Wayne follows Gary, Jeffersonville, Hammond, Muncie and other cities is evidence of the perfect wall of protection that has prevailed in the past.

Five thousand pairs of eyes—the eyes of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in Fort Wayne—and dollars—dollars provided by the local organization to purchase evidence and employ trained investigators—have made possible a civic rebirth and rededication to law aid order in Allen county. "The little band" of federal officers are here today, but the Klan was here yester-day, here today, and will be here tomorrow and forever.

Celebration at Huntington, West Virginia

The above is a picture taken at the celebration held on July 4th by the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. The photograph was taken immediately before the initiation of a great class of candidates. The Klan at Huntique is growing rapidly and there is much enthusiasm throughout the state in connection with the steady increase of members. The ceremony which took place at the spot pictured above is reported as one of the most beautiful ever held in West Virginia.

Secrets

Today the enomies of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan are proclaiming to the world that they dare not exist because they are secret, and because the tasks that they perform are in secret.

Such a deliberative and patriotic body as the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan apparently find the necessity for their secret acts and existence. No greater justification could exist than the fact that the Constitution of the United States, the greatest document ever written by the hands of men, was adopted in secret conclave, and their entire dieliberations were kept secret from the public until the constitution was adopted. The only reason that the constitution was adopted was because men of those day reason that the constitution was adopted was because men of those days for democracy, a good government, of the people, by the people, and for the people, with the "consent of the governed."

The Crowning Insult

The Crowning Insuit

Each and every Protestant in Indianapolis daily looks for acts of violence, vandalism, insuits to Protestantism and attacks on American ideals and institutions from the agents of the un-American Unity League, but when the crowning insuit of the long list suffered by Protestants comes from St. Vincent's hospital and is printed in the Indiana Catholic Record in an article which illy feigns the writer's deep satisfaction that a man, stricken while away from home, and alleged to be a Klansman, dies in a Catholic Institute, each and every Protestant is given something to ponder over.

The Record stated that one of the nurse at the hospial, who evidently is in authority, due to the fact that she was permitted to make a statement, said that "for a non-Catholic the man died in comparative case and seemigly not in fear." The nurse seemed surprised that one of the Protestant faith could die in ease and not fear for his soul because he had not embraced the Catholic faith.

infall could de in ease and not fear for his soul because he had not embraced the Catholic faith.

The only inference that can be gleaned from the nurse's statement is that Protestanta usually die in agony for the sin of being a Protestant in the protestant in the protestant in the protestant in the protestant in authority, toward Protestants, the words of this nurse can come only as a distinct shock to many who have always looked upon this nurse and those of her calling as "messengers of merey." While subconsclosely in many Protestants are aware of the teachings of the Catholic hierarchy in regard to those not of the Catholic faith, this inference that one "outside the church" must die in agony, with a gnawing and territying fear of the thereafter, strikes one in the face like a bucket of cold water and thoroughly wakes one to the face that Protestants, in the eyes of Catholicism, are builtie, if any, removed from the rankest heathen.

This statement by the aurse brings out virially why the Catholic church is ever on the defensive; it gives an apt Illustration as to why the hierarchy, through its lesser lights, is ever denying this and branding that as a lis against the church; it explains why certain priests are offering rewards in the newspapers from time to time for any one who will prove this or that which the church is alleged to teach.

The statement of this nurse about a dying Protestant will take much explanation to convince Protestants that they were not wantonly and maliciously insulted—and that the insult came from both a person and an institution that was at least believed to be above openly insulting eighty per cent of our population.

per cent of our population.

The Klan and Order

No better refutation of the charge that the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan is a law-breaking group could have been found than the excellent manner in which the throng of thousands of Klansmen and their families gathered at Buckeye Lake Thursday for the State Klonklave, deported themselves.

Residents of the lake colony, who are not connected with the Klan, especially commented on the conduct of all. It is said that never before has Buckeye Lake been the scene of such a buge gathering. Not a uniformed officer of the law was to be seen. Yet a spirit of good cheer, fellowship and "Hall fellow, well met," was evident on every hand. There sus no rush, no hurry or jam, despite the throng.

It can well be said that every man and every woman lived up to his and her obligation of "law and order," and did the organization a service, the benefits of which will be reaped as time goes on.

That is a fine system—or would be if it were not for the fact that the space is limited in this old world of ours. When Lief Erickson discovered North America it ddin't leave a great many continents to be discovered.
In view of the fact that the Catholic church has lost jis hold in all progressive countries and is making its last stand here, the words of Rev.
Father Ignatius Smith, O. P. S. T. Lr., Ph. D., brings to mind the words of the once popular song, "Where Do We Go From Here, Boys!"

To the Imperial Wizard, and all Klandom. I affectionately dedicate this ode.—D. D. B.

I am clothed with wisdom's mantle;
Age and experience are mine,
Yet I am still in the swaddling clothes
Of my existence.

I am strong beyond my years;
My hand typifies strength,
And although untrained in cunning
Its movements mark the quaking
Of the enemies of my country.

My eye, though covered, is all-seeing;
It penetrates the dark recesses of law violation,
Treason, political corruption and injustice,
Causing these cowardly culprits to bare their unholy faces
In the light of my all-seeing revelations.
My vision is so broad
That my daily meditations force upon me new problems,
New situations and new obligations.
My feet are swift to carry the strength of my hand
And the penetrations of my all-seeing eye.
My nature is serious, righteous and just,
And tempered with the love of Christ.
My purpose is noble, far-reaching and age-lasting.
My heart is heavy but not relenting;
Sorrowful but not hopeless;
Pure but ever able to master the unclean;
Humble but not cowardly;
Strong but not arrogant;
Simple but not foolish;
Ready without fear.
I am the Spirit of Righteousness.
