

"Illustrious man, before whom all borrowed greatness sinks into insignificance."—Charles James Fox.

STILL IN CAMI AUNG

Last week Elmer Crume, a member of the First Christian Church and a Klansman, died. It was his desire to be buried by Klansmen and that his funeral services be held at the First Christian Church. Virtually all his immediate family belong to the First Christian Church also. It also was their desire that the wishes of Mr. Crume be carried out.

Rules Against Klam

It was a great treat, and enjoyed by all. A pianist played while the men enjoyed the banquet. The retiring organizer of the Women of the Klan was called on for a speech and this was followed by a talk by the county E. C., giving a review of the work accomplished and outlining a program for the future.

There is no panacea for our afflictions, since our troubles are chronic and complex, but we face the supreme moment in the affairs of our beloved country, and consequently our duty is passing imperative. It is necessary that we set our own house in order for we do not the

Women of Klan As a Guard of Honor

In 1919 some relatives of mine were induced by the Alamo Land and Sugar company, R. B. Cressler, president, to go on an excursion to Hidalgo county, Texas, where they were induced to buy land known as the Cressler river at that point. The company was to get as much cash as possible from each victim, to the balance of one-half in notes. I was induced to buy 100 acres on a contract for the purchase of this land, which was sold at from $250 to $300 an acre. I paid $250 and got for nearly $24,000, which was the accumulation of three generations and was practically all they were worth. They gave notes for $10,000 in addition to the cash payment. The notes were afterwards transferred in a large amount to me and I sold them for about $1000. I collected. We secured a judgment

The above photograph was taken at the funeral of Mrs. Eva Stoddard, wife of Elmer Stoddard, of Indianapolis, at the grave in the cemetery at Butlerville, February 4. More than sixty Women of the Klan attended the burial as a guard of honor. The body was taken to Butlerville, the former home of Mrs. Stoddard, from Indianapolis, accompanied by an escort of Women of the Klan. Women of the Klan of Jennings County met the funeral party at the train at Butlerville and accompanied the body to the grave, where the funeral home conducted short services. Many beautiful floral pieces were contributed by Women of the Klan and Klansmen.

Klan Co-operates
These plans were thwarted through the efforts of County Detective David with the co-operation of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. It was the detective who learned and it was the Klan organization which responded to the call for the protection of life and property within thirty minutes after the danger was made known. Law-abiding citizens have volunteered to guard day and night to see that no harm comes to the pastor, his church or to any citizen who may be threatened by the mob leaders. While everything seems quiet, Klan watch is being kept on the streets, reporting anything of a suspicious character, which takes place at any time of the day or night.

Order Highly Respected
The high respect in which the organization is held is manifested every day by remarks of praise heard on every street corner. It is proved itself contrary to enemies of law and order, to the mob, to the able people and they are responding. It has been estimated that three times as many men would answer the Klan summons now as answered the call when given for the protection of the community.
Those who would tell the malicious stories about the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan dare not peddle their wares in Jamestown now.

Lincoln's Secretary Is 89
MADISON, N. J., Feb. 16.—William O. Stoddard, civil war-time private secretary to Abraham Lincoln, Tuesday, passed the anniversary of the martyred president's birthday in quiet at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harold S. Buttenheim. Stoddard, who is eighty-nine years old, although feeble and totally deaf, spends most of his time reading.

As editor of an Illinois newspaper, Stoddard wrote the first editorial advocating Lincoln for president in 1858, and he was the first to appear in the Central Illinois Gazette in May, 1859. Stoddard served three months in the army until 1861, and then became private secretary to the president of general books dealing with the life and presidency of Lincoln, and also of many works of fiction and history.

4,000 at Funeral; Full Klan Ritual Conducted
HAMILTON, O., Feb. 16.—More than 4,000 persons, among whom were several hundred Klansmen, attended the funeral of Charles Stuck, recently at Seven Miles. The full Klan ritual was used in the service, money ever conducted by Klansmen at Greenwood, where the burial took place. The services were held at Bethel church, and the Klansmen met the cortege at the entrance. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. H. A. Dickinson.

BRIDGEPORT, N. J., Feb. 16.—Citizens of Cumberland county are incensed over the lack of action on the part of the Board of Education in the death of Emma Dickson, September 22. As a result it is probable that a committee of citizens will call on Governor Sizor in the near future asking that a special prosecutor be appointed to investigate the death of Miss Dickson, 15 years old. Her body was found buried in a shallow pit near her home and it was evident that she had been murdered. A little over a week ago Benjamin Dickson, grandfather of the murdered girl, confessed to four men that he had seen his son kill the girl in a fit of rage. Dickson, 83 years old, the girl's father had forbidden her to go to a certain place, and she disobeyed his orders. He availed her return and when she entered the room from the gate of the yard, she fell dead, her skull crushed. It is alleged that the father then went to the back of the house, got a wheelbarrow, placed his daughter's body in it and took it to the spot where it was found. The ground, it was found there a short time later.

Cross Brings Confession
Apparently little effort was made by Prosecutor Ward to investigate the crime. The story is said to have come out recently when a Ku Klux Klan cross was burned in the neighborhood of the girl's home. The burning of the cross and the burning of the girl's body were connected in the mind of the community. Finally he confessed to four men that his son committed the crime and that he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan. The father of the murdered girl was arrested and is now in the Cumberland county jail.

Old Man Seriously Ill
The old man suffered a collapse after he confessed that his son killed the girl, and is in the Fort Elizabeth hospital in a serious condition. The event the prosecution will have to be based on the statements of the four men to whom the grandfather confessed. It is known that the Ku Klux Klan has been active in the neighborhood for some time. That some indication of evidence, that some indication of this must have reached the ears of Benjamin Dickson and that his confession must have been made. The fact which the burning of the fiery cross in that neighborhood had on him.

The citizens of the community have held a mass meeting and for a special prosecutor in the event. Prosecutor Ward does not act quickly. It is believed, however, that some action will be taken as soon as the condition of the grandfather is determined.

Attack on Americanism
These scenes and excerpts indicate the trend of his whole speech in which he used the Klan as a direct objective in his underground attack on Americanism and the Christian. As the rabbi continued by the hearty applause of a few political henchmen who have netarous ends in view, he became encouraged with the flattery, which no doubt accounts for the loss of the state's means he made. This same delivery on the part of certain political henchmen, playing for the Jewish and Roman Catholic vote of the East, gave the rabbi enough bravado to lead the Klan to hire a hall anywhere in America for him to tell them something; he did not make himself clear as to the subject matter and the conclusion which has been drawn is that he is an anti-American Jew and an American.

Live Stock on Ohio Farms
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Live stock on Ohio's farms and ranges January 1 was valued at $197,262,000, according to a report from the United States department of agriculture. The value of horses and of milk cows was exactly the same, $51,040,000, the highest of any class of stock. Monetary worth of all classes of live stock was $228,848,000; 32,000 head valued at $39 each.

Horses—763,000, valued at $80 a head, or a total of $61,040,000. Milk Cows—1,090,000, valued at $50 each, or a total of $54,500,000. Other live stock, valued at $31.0 a head, or a total value of $25,124,000. Sheep—2,115,000, valued at $7.65 a head, or a total of $16,440,000. Pigs—1,000,000, valued at $39.70 a head, or a total of $39,700,000.

Unsubstantiated
Unsubstantiated the Klan would be the same as the rabbi if his speech is so ban and his Jewish brothers are so poor that they could not provide a hall for him if he had something of a constructive nature to say. The Klan is a group of American citizens who are endeavoring to protect and shield that "conception" that shall be ample generous as the ideal that long continued to be the ideal of the American people. Whether these were understood by the rabbi himself.

ERIE RAILROAD TESTS TRAIN CONTROL DEVICE

Officials Report Successful Demonstration of Invention to Prevent Collisions

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Feb. 16.—Officials of the Erie railroad and of the Train Control Corporation of America, Tuesday witnessed what they termed a successful test of an automatic train control device on the steep five-mile grade between this city and Graham, N. Y.

During the demonstration a passenger train and locomotive followed a New York bound express at high speed and for three blocks the control device prevented the second train from passing the first.

Signals indicating the track ahead and the location of the express train, the location of the express train, the location of the express train.

opportunities guaranteed them in the basic law of the land. It was by securing the Klan's religious spirit of the constitution, but failed to say that it violated the constitution. In this he admitted that the Klan did not violate the constitution, but that it was a violation of the basic law of the land.

In an opinion, the Klan intends to derive citizens of their rights he did not say. This would have been a long string of allegations and opinions and grew more or less as the Klan's religious spirit of the constitution, but failed to say that it violated the constitution.

Taken all in all the address was a long string of allegations and opinions and grew more or less as the Klan's religious spirit of the constitution, but failed to say that it violated the constitution.

The Rev. Lindeman did not say so in as many words, but did say that the Klan is sectarian while Christianity is universal. From that standpoint, the Klan is a Catholic church, which realized that the Catholic church is not a sect.

The views expressed by Rev. Lindeman were much the same as those put out by the alien interests in the Klan, which realized that the Klan is the strong arm of Protestantism.

Reports being received from all parts of the state show that the Klan is growing at a fast pace in this state and that such suppression are a help rather than a detriment to the Protestant cause.

LONDON TO UNDERGO A CLEANUP CRUSADE

LONDON, O., Feb. 16.—The first public statement ever issued by the Ku Klux Klan of London and Madison county appeared recently in a newspaper advertisement, signed by "the Ku Klux Klan of London and Madison county."

It is known that the liquor and gambling laws have been persistently and flagrantly violated, not only in London, but in the county, and it is said the constituted authorities either are unable or unwilling to enforce them.

The Klan have been current in London for several weeks, but the advertisement was the first formal announcement by the organization that the Klan will not attempt to cooperate with the police and county authorities in uncovering the evidence, and then will insist that the laws be enforced.

DANGERS OF UNRESTRICTED IMMIGRATION

1921, p. 48). Twenty-nine per cent of the total population of Rhode Island is foreign born; 23.3 per cent of the total population of the state is foreign born. The foreign-born population of Connecticut is 27.4 per cent of the total population of the state of Connecticut is foreign born; 25.5 per cent of the total population of the whole of New England is foreign born (U. S. Statistical Abstract, 1921, p. 733).

Bearing in mind these percentages, together with the foreign born's propensity to prolific multiplication, coupled with the native born's tendency to race suicide, one does not have to surmise the already existence of a majority of the population of foreign ancestry in New York. In fact, the census shows that over 60 per cent of the population of New York is of foreign ancestry. The census of New York is foreign stock; 53 per cent of New York is of foreign stock.

The foreign born are not scattered haphazardly over and throughout the

are concentrated in our cities and are employed in a few industries in the country. The 1930 census discloses that 72.9 per cent of the foreign-born population is located in Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and New England states and 95.5 per cent in the New England States, New York, New Jersey, New England, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York (census monograph I, p. 104).

To illustrate the native whites' loss of the vote, the foreign born's, and the colored man's, the report of the secretary of the state of New York shows that in 1870 the number of native born in the state of Connecticut was 332,904, or 62.1 per cent, whereas the 1920 census shows that the number of native born in the state was 300,000, or 54.1 per cent of the total population of the state.

An Alarming Situation

In many of the basic industries and the foreign born outnumbered the native born to an alarming degree. In the iron and steel industry, for example, the foreign born were 54.5 per cent, foreign born. What is even more alarming is the fact that the foreign born are increasing in number by that is that out of every 100 persons employed in that industry sixty-five are foreign born, and the same thing applies to these other percentages.

of the duties and responsibilities of American citizenship? Are not those the two things that are most disturbing to those who take no prejudice against any race or color? Is not the effect of such a question to shift the effect solely from the standpoint of race to the standpoint of citizenship? Mr. Watkins—I think that is the situation. I desire to say here and now that I do not condemn every foreign-born and every alien. That is not the case. I have some of the most excellent Italians in the world in my neighborhood; I have some of the finest people of every nationality in my country. I have some of the best factors that we have here in this country

There are too many for our institutions to absorb. There are too many for our government, and I am not laying an indictment against it, for it has been the best government ever given and foreign in our history. But, as the great American chroniclers have stated, these are too many to assimilate them. We can not assimilate them because we can not absorb them. They are not of our kind. Now, the next table shows that the population of the United States, it seems to me, a more vicious individualities than the last one. That is, the white Americans in the United States in New England, 1,706,000; in the middle Atlantic states, 1,000,000; in the middle Atlantic states, 2,273,712; were found in the poorhouses; in the east north central states, 1,711,712 of them were foreign born. In the east north central states there were 8,348 were foreign born. If these 8,348 were foreign born, there were 6,246 of the 8,348 were foreign born. This same document is in the appendix to the report of the Secretary of the Interior.

There were 239,700 illiterates, and of that number 257,207 were foreign born. There were 1,000,000 illiterates in the middle Atlantic states and there were 865,382 illiterates, and the foreign born were 769,910. Those were the illiterate persons 10 years of age and over.

Today, Mr. Chairman, America has approximately 6,400,000 unutilized foreigners within her borders, and the majority of them are in the United States. We have in this country 48.6 per cent live in the cities. There are more than 10,000 newspapers and periodicals printed in foreign tongues in the United States.

Now, Mr. Chairman, what indictment do these figures write against us? None other, sir, than that we

"I have been a member of this immigration committee fifteen years and we have about the same feeling to contend with every time immigration bills come up. The threat of violence and pressure is exerted on about the same sort of sources each time. Certain influences are always against us in this matter. We hear from the churches and Sunday schools in the neighborhood, and the business community. There is a lot of anti-immigration feeling here in the States coming from the native-born alien element wanting publican leaders by declaring that an "unusually large number of votes may result in the passage of the bill and swing the balance of power to the normally republican states in the democratic column." That old canard, the "swing state," is still alive and kicking. For all there is in the bill, the President of the United States, New York City, is one contending party and New York City might prove a determining factor in the coming presidential election. A flood of pro-Johnson bills, which have been passed by the House, have been brought before the Senate, and a similar quota, have reached Congress. Italian judges of Schenck, Infante and Alton City have framed resolutions charging that the bill is discriminatory. Even Justice S. A. M. of the New York Supreme Court, has supplied a memorandum, has suggested a remedy.

a pamphlet form to the president, members of the cabinet, and senators and representatives in congress, everybody got them.

As stated by this writer before, the New York Times and New York Herald Tribune, in their editorial work, is preparing a minority report for the Democratic members of the immigration committee. Diebstcin announced an extension of the present law until a commission has more carefully studied the problem.

Going Ahead With Him

It is now predicted that there are enough southern Democrats who will combine with the Republican majority and put through the Johnson bill. It is not believed, at least by the majority, that the Democratic party has enough sufficient votes to block the bill. The Democratic party in the presidential election has lost the support of the big newspaper publishers, the immigration men-

Klan Has Made Enemies by Wasting No Time in Vain Debate, Frost Says

One of Its Chief Qualities, Outlook Writer Asserts, Is That It Gets Action on Any Subject It Takes Up -- Sometimes the Chips Strike Those Who Oppose It. Unexpectedly

The Ku Klux Klan, whatever its faults, has one quality much prized by moralists. It gets ardent, wasting no time in vain debate. In fact, there is reason to believe that this admirable trait is the chief reason for the tremendous hostility it has roused. Most of us endure very patiently all sorts of opinions or projects so long as they remain quietly electrolytic. It is when the matter comes to life and bite some one else that we begin to quarrel.

In cases where people are hostile to the Klan or are guilty of un-American practices or of serious misconduct, Klansmen, it is well to be as individuals. If it becomes generally known that certain firms are, for example, have discriminated for no other reason than that they were Klansmen, it would be better to cut them out than to deal with other Klansmen. It is almost a natural thing that Klansmen at times local Klans having information of this kind should disseminate it. But a Klansman is always free to act as he pleases on such information.

The first word of a Klan when it starts to clean up a town seems to be popular mind. There is doubtless a menace but the Klan "bluffs" the public far beyond its real strength. It will try more or less to make those with whom we deal feel that we are a bit stronger or a bit more determined than we actually are. The Klan "works its best" to perfection when it is in the cruel and deliberate mood of an organized monster of unknowable strength, working by diabolic methods, through invisible agents guided by infernal cunning and able to hurt him through every medium. The Klan, however, is unknown, his fears are always exaggerated.

and a system of trial and punishment beside itself which are more effective. Nor are the crimes punished only those against fellow members. There is little doubt that the level of conduct is raised among men who join.

This fear of the Klan is often so effective that no further weapon is called for; a decree has only to be issued to be obeyed. Probably a great many decrees which never can be definitely proven to have any connection with the Klan. It is my conviction, however, that this report was well concealed, thus this report general information is based on "rumor and belief." But because so many similar situations appear wherever the Kian exists and seldom appear elsewhere the connection between the Kian and the general information is further strengthened. Where called to my attention and information is furnished, they will be summarily removed. It is contrary to law and in fact boycotted. With most of these "acted scandalously" reformation brought by their own fear of the Kian, brings prompt reformation.

There may not be, and in most Klan towns never had been, any actual demonstration of force. But the threat they represented was enough to become involved in a trouble they can't measure. This holds the bulk of any community neutral and leaves those who join the Klan desecrating the town. The Klan does attack unsuspecting people, but it is the Klan's indifference to the level of conduct is raised among people; I can not say that they try to terrify people; I can not say that they try to

The second move is against men, usually against men who are considered to be "bachelors," the Klan's moral ideas. These are rather strict, being set by the same literati-minded, church-going class of decent people who have given us the Sabbath and have no sympathy for any sexual indulgence whatsoever. Often the victims are Catholics.

After a single demonstration of these there is seldom need of further first action, and usually none is taken unless for definite punishment or to drive some person from the place.

Not Illegal Methods

Let me hasten to say that I am not accusing the Klan of illegal conspiracy in these measures. There is no order to Klansmen to ostracize or stop trading with the negroes. This information is simply given to them. The discrimination may seem harsh, but the distinction may seem subtle. I believe this method has been deliberately legal in various cases where men's portraits were involved. Kian-chen was free to act on this information or not as they choose, but they all seem to choose to act. Let me give you a few reasons on this:

1. I have already mentioned that we have attracted and prompted a great deal of attention and information is far beyond what we could have expected. Where called to pay special attention and information is furnished, they will be summarily removed. It is contrary to law and in

When this fails pressure is applied to the managers which drive them to run through contraction and beyond. The whole procedure can be illustrated by a single case, which is typical in that even the victim himself does not know certainly that his enemy is the Kian. It occurred a few weeks ago in an eastern state. One of those communities where the violation of the principles of the Kian. This refers to a specifically defined illegal boycott.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The year 1923 was distinguished as one of the best health years in the history of the United States and Canada, according to the statistical bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for January just issued. The figures presented were compiled from the mortality records of 13- to 600,000 Metropolitan industrial population, the vast majority of whom live in the industrial areas. In the metropolitan areas, where the mortality records were more directly affected by sanitary agencies.

The death rate for this important cross-section of the American population as represented in the Metropolitan figures was 8.9 per 1,000 in 1921; in 1922 it was 8.8, and in 1923, the record year, 8.7. These are the figures for the year in the sanitary history of the country. The death rate for the industrial population for each year, as is provided by the rates for their industrial populations for each prior year, as 1919 (10.6), 1917 (11.6), 1915 (12.0) and 1914 (12.5).
