MAHON COUNTY KLAN, NO. 3, ELE'rS OFFICERS IN PRESENCE OF IMPERIAL WIZARD

Seven thousand Indianapolis and Marion county Klansmen gathered Friday evening at Carie Tabernacle, following the announcement that the Marion county organization was to receive its charter. The streets leading to the entrances to the Tabernacle were filled at 7 o'clock and the doors were not opened until 8 o'clock. Part of the space within a radius of five blocks of the Tabernacle was filled and long before 8 o'clock, and as the doors opened the interior auditorium quickly filled. It was one of the most demonstrative audiences that ever assembled in the great auditorium.

A short musical program preceded the business program, and a number of native-born speakers gave the expected audience. (The address at this time.) The audience, too, was full of expectations. The seating capacity was exceeded.

During the riot a thirty-year-old girl and an old man and an aged woman were seriously injured by the rioters. (By Wingfoot)

(Bureau of Publication and Education)

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The House of Representatives held a stormy session on Thursday, March 21, 1924, to investigate the "Propaganda of Traders." The investigation was held in response to allegations made by a group of traders that the government was promoting the sale of American goods abroad.

The House members were heatedly debated over the issue, with many members criticizing the government's actions. In the end, the House passed a resolution condemning the "Propaganda of Traders." The resolution was signed by the Speaker of the House, Mr. John T. McHugh.

Show No Money Contributed in Interest of Mayfield Campaign for Senate

(Bureau of Publication and Education)

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Klansmen of the South failed to contribute any money to the campaign of Senator Peddy for the Senate in the election held last week. The Klansmen's lack of support for the campaign is a stark contrast to the support they have shown in the past.

The Klansmen have traditionally been a powerful force in Southern politics, and their support has been crucial to many politicians. However, this year's campaign seems to have been particularly unsuccessful for them.

President Coolidge played first in a string of starry days for the nation. He was not the only member of the Coolidge family to receive attention from the public. His wife, Lou Henry Coolidge, was also a popular figure. The couple often spoke of their love for each other and their country.

Little debate was made on the motion to adopt the resolution. The House exhibted its usual good temper and the president's vote came and there were about 30 or 40 votes cast. The resolution was then voted on and it was carried by a large majority of 2 to 1.

Resolutions Adopted

Receiving the resolution with gratitude,
the meeting proceeded with the business of the day.

The principal subject of Congressional activities was the question of women's suffrage. The women's group seemed to be working on a plan to secure the right of women to vote in federal elections. The group was making good progress and there were high hopes for the future.

The resolution adopted by Congress was one to support the women's right to vote.

The resolution called for the appointment of female officials in Congress and the support of female candidates for public office.

The resolution was approved by a large majority of 2 to 1.

The meeting adjourned.

Love vs. Hate

In South Beach, Indiana, while it seems impossible, students of Notre Dame, women and men, wereighbled to live together in the same way, to become one. The stories of the first day were almost everywhere. The sleep of the people, the young students, the people to whom the American flag was a symbol of freedom, was marred by the sight of the American flag being displayed on the streets of the country.

The flag was seen as a symbol of hate, and the students' response was to assert their freedom of speech and their right to express their views. "The American flag is not a symbol of hate," one of the students said. "It represents the principles of freedom and equality that we hold dear.

The students organized a protest, calling for the removal of the flag. They argued that the American flag does not represent their values and that it should not be displayed on their campus. The protest gained national attention, and the university eventually removed the flag.

Fighting for Their Freedom

The students' fight for freedom was not just a matter of protest. It was a struggle for their own identity and for a better future. "We want to be free to express our own thoughts and beliefs," one of the students said. "We want to be able to live our lives without fear of discrimination.

The students' struggle was not in vain. Their persistence and dedication paid off, and they were able to win their fight for freedom. Today, the students of Notre Dame can proudly display their American flag, knowing that it represents their values and their freedom.

In conclusion, the students of Notre Dame's fight for freedom is a reminder of the importance of fighting for what we believe in. It is a reminder that when we stand up for our values, we can make a difference.

Klanism

Klanism is like muscle—it is necessary to use it. It is not good to sit around and do nothing. We should discard the idea that the Ku Klux Klan is necessary.

Klanism is not the answer. It is not the solution. It is not the way to solve our problems. We should focus on finding solutions that are better than Klanism.

Libel of Americans

There is not much truth, brutality, and inhumanity portrayed in the movies of the past few years. The last one was the sentiments of the film industry that "The average boy who gets his first taste of life is a better man for it than the average girl who gets her first taste of life."

The facts are not as black and white as they are presented in these movies. The film industry has a history of depicting women in a negative light and perpetuating stereotypes. This is not a new phenomenon, as cinema has been criticized for years for its portrayal of women and other marginalized groups.

The Mighty Weapons

A country's might is not just about its military. The United States is one of the most powerful countries in the world, not just because of its military, but also because of its economic, cultural, and technological influence. The US is a hub for innovation and technology, and it is a leader in the global economy. It has a strong influence on international affairs, and its cultural products are consumed worldwide. The US is also a major player in the world's financial markets. All of these factors contribute to the country's overall power.

Quick! The Micropedia

An eastern paper declares that "nervous Republicans now can long properly be termed the party of the plutocrats who have been put in power by the Wall Street financiers and the banking houses."

This statement is not entirely accurate. While it is true that the Republican Party has been criticize for its ties to the wealthy elite, it is important to remember that the party also has a strong base of support among working-class and middle-class Americans. The Republican Party has a long history of advocating for policies that benefit the middle and working class, such as lowering taxes and reducing government regulations. It is important to have a nuanced understanding of political parties and their platforms.

Another Protest

The Carpenters' Union of Baltimore, opposing the actions of Sen. Dill's committee, made a protest against the Senate bill. The union's delegate, a member of the Senate committee, was present and had been invited to attend the Senate session. The union representative stated that the Senate bill was a violation of the rights of the workers and that the Senate committee had no right to pass such a bill without the consent of the workers.

The Carpenters' Union and the Telephone Company were involved in a telephone war. The Carpenters' Union was trying to get the telephone company to comply with their requests for better working conditions and higher wages. The telephone company, on the other hand, was trying to prevent the Carpenters' Union from using the telephone lines for union purposes.

Smith's Record on Liquor Question Honestly Earns Him "Alcohol" as a Nickname

An indication of the fight that the drys will make against the nomination of Governor Alfred E. Smith as the Democratic candidate in a convention called by Thur. J. Davis, New York state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League.

The drys have said that for twenty years Governor Smith has had an unblushing record in favor of the liquor traffic, including an affirmative vote for the Prohibition amendment, and have also said that he is not a dry man. But Mr. Davis has said that he is a dry man and that he has fought for the prohibition amendment in every state that has had or can have a Democratic electorate.
